GREAT ADJUNCT TO INDUSTRY IS ANNOUNCED FOR DONORA

A $3,000,000 Plant For Manufacture of Spelter To Be Erected

PRODUCT GROWS SCARCER DAILY

To Be One of the Largest Industries Erected in Valley Since the Establishment of the Universal Cement Works.

Chairman Elbert H. Gary of the directors of the United States Steel Corporation, has announced that corporation will construct a plant for the manufacture of zinc and by-products in the section, probably at Donora. The new plant will be a $3,000,000 addition to the present manufacturing concerns of the valley. The addition will make the steel industry in the valley more complete and less dependent upon outside sections for certain specie of products.

Thursday the initial announcement was made by Chairman Gary at New York. In accordance with the announcement operations will be started for the erection of the new plant on or before January 1. It is rumored among the steel men that the shortage of spelter, used largely in war, was the necessary incentive to cause the erection of the new plant. Spelter enters into the manufacture of steel largely and has heretofore been manufactured in this country only in meagre quantities.

Gary states that for a long time the steel industry has encountered no small amount of difficulty and inconvenience in procuring spelter. However, the project did not assume definite form until the demand for spelter in the warring countries forced it up $320 a ton.

After a committee of engineers had been sent to the valley and had made an exhaustive exploration it was found that a location near Donora would be advisable. At Donora there is a large demand for spelter as the American Steel and Wire company has extensive plants there.

The steel corporation engineers will plan and build the works rapidly. Haste is necessary for the present stock of spelter is daily growing smaller and smaller. When the new smelter has been erected ore will be shipped from deposits owned by the corporation.

The establishment of this new industry is considered the most important step taken by the corporation since the establishment of the great cement works at Universal. In each instance the product has been a distinct departure from the products of the corporation, the idea being to get independent supplies of the materials that are in tremendous demand by the corporation.

A. B. Gray, who has charge of the State highway work in Washington county, announces that within the next few days the work of oiling the macadam roads of this county will be started.

As a matter of precaution the following communication has been sent by the highways department to the management of the Atlantic Refining Co., which is to furnish the material:

Mr. B. O. Roberts,

Dear Sir:—It is very important that all of the men handling Naptha Cutback road material will appreciate that there is a fire risk to be considered in connection with this material.

Caution signs should be put up along each highway by the State Highway engineers emphasizing "No smoking or use of matches along the highway where the application of Naphtha Cutback is being done." VALLEY ORGANIZATIONS OF W. C. T. U. ENTERTAINED IN UNION MEETING AT ELDORA

Interesting Program of Addresses and Musical Numbers at Home of Mrs. Sampson—Next Meeting in Donora

Members of the Monessen, Monongahela, Belle Vernon, Donora, Charleroi and Eldora organizations of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union held a union meeting at the home of Mrs. John Sampson of Eldora. Following the opening services conducted by the president of the Eldora organization the delegation from Belle Vernon took charge of the meeting. Mrs. A. W. Marston gave an address emphasizing the importance of the advertising of meetings and of wearing the white ribbons. Miss Shuster, also of Belle Vernon gave a talk on woman suffrage. The Donora people then took up the program and addresses were made by Mrs. John Watson, Mrs. Rabe and Mrs. Smith on the work of the W. C. T. U. and the significance of the white ribbon. Mrs. John Leathers sang "Shadow Dance" and Mrs. Erhardt of Donora also made an address. Mrs. Beamer of Monessen spoke on "Justice We Do Not Get" and other members of the Monessen organization made short talks.

The Eldora organization was established last October and is the youngest society of the kind in the valley. Mrs. George Stearns of Eldora gave an outline of their plan of work. Solo numbers were then contributed by Miss Anna Stearns and Miss Mary Ellwood both of Eldora. The Charleroi delegation was headed by Mrs. Emma Dawson who made an address. Mrs. McCluskey of the Monongahela society spoke of the W. C. T. U. organization, Mrs. Jacquemain of "Delusion of Drink" and Mrs. Gibson on "White Ribbons." Mrs. Hugh Leslie of Monongahela sang, "His Eye is on the Sparrow." After the program a sumptuous lunch was served by the Eldora organization. The Sampson home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers for the occasion. It was decided to hold union meetings of these six organizations at least twice a year and a committee composed of one member from each society was appointed to look after these meetings. The next union meeting will be held in Donora at the home of Mrs. Rabe.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA ANNOUNCE THEIR THIRD ANNUAL OUTING TO BE HELD AT KENNYWOOD

Preparation Are Being Made by the Local Commanderies for the Largest Outing of the Year On Saturday, July 24

Much enthusiasm has been aroused in this vicinity by the announcement of the Third Annual Outing and Field Day of the Knights of Malta of Western Pennsylvania which will be held at Kennywood Park, Saturday, July 24.

This outing will be held under the auspices of the Field Day Association of Western Pennsylvania and which is composed of over 100 Commanderies and 25 Sisterhoods. The officers of the association for this year are: George O. Adams, president; J. M. Pollock, vice president; S. J. Sloan, treasurer and G. C. Welch, secretary.

The outing this year is again for the benefit of the Knights of Malta Home and Hospital Association, which has purchased a site near Lewiston, Pa., and work preliminary to the erection of the buildings is being pushed with vigor.

Fully 20,000 people attended the outing last year—the largest crowd of people that ever assembled in Kennywood Park on any one day—and the various committees are leaving nothing undone to double the number this year. It will be the largest Malta outing ever held in Pennsylvania. The railroads have consented to run special trains within a radius of 100 miles of Pittsburg.

AFTER-SUPPER SALES AT WILSON HEIGHTS

Four more lots in Wilson Heights, sold at a private sale, after supper yesterday, is further testimony in favor of that new home-settlement. Several others will close up negotiations for lots tonight and a couple more will do the same on Monday. These lots are attracting public attention, because buyers are getting twice and three times the worth of their money. The after-supper deals are arranged for the convenience of persons unable to attend during the day. Now's your time to make easy money. Take trolley car to Bridge 2 stop. 5 Cent fare. Come this evening. 3-tl.

SPLENDID VAUDEVILLE OFFERING AT THE PALACE

Manager Bernhard of the Palace Theatre is to be congratulated in securing such a splendid array of vaudeville talent such as was presented last night, every act being above the average and scoring a big hit. Millicent Darris who was at the Harris Theatre last week made a great impression with the large audience last night. CHARLEROI PEOPLE ATTEND

20th Annual Convention of County Sunday Schools one of Many Beneficial Dissertations and Finely Prepared Talks.

The twentieth annual convention of the Washington County Sabbath School association is in session in the Washington High school building. From the present outlook the meeting this year is bound to be up to the average in interest. At 10:30 Thursday the time for opening of the first session of the convention, a large number of delegates from nearly every section of Washington county, had registered and received credentials entitling them to all the privileges of the meeting. The committee was kept busy until noon registering delegates and assigning them to places of entertainment.

The meeting was called to order by the president of the association, W. F. Alten, after which Rev. J. W. Hawley, of Pittsburg, leader in the music conducted a short song service with Miss Florence Stewart of Washington, at the piano. The devotional exercises were in charge of the Rev. J. Walter Barnes, pastor of the North Ten Mile Baptist church who called on the pastors of churches to stand and give sentence prayers followed by similar petitions from superintendents.

The address of the morning session was delivered by Evangelist Luther K. Peacock of Houston. Mr. Peacock spoke on the subject, "Passion for Souls." He spoke plainly, pointing out how workers in the Sunday school fail to get results, giving as the main cause a lack of a desire to save the souls of their fellow men and women.

MONONGAHELA DELEGATION ENDEAVORS TO OPEN MINE

Twenty Men of Monongahela Go to Pittsburg to Interview Carsburg Superintendent.

Today a delegation of about 20 members of the Monongahela Chamber of commerce journeyed to Pittsburg to hold an interview with General Manager George M. Schlueder-berg, of the Catsburg mine at Monongahela.

They are making an endeavor to have the Catsburg mine at Monongahela opened up because of the destitute and penurious condition of the mine workers. The Catsburg mine has been closed for nearly a year and the reopening of it would add greatly to the industry of the valley.

LOCAL MEN SENT TO PENITENTIARY

Two Professional Loafers Are Dispatched on a Vacation to Penitentiary

ONE FINALLY REFUSES TO WORK

Resultant of their arrest here Wednesday night, Dave Fritz and Thomas Johnson have been sentenced to the Western penitentiary. Professional loafing was the charge. Johnson was sentenced to 6 months imprisonment while Fritz was sentenced to a year, this having been Fritz's second sentence on the same charge.

Johnson's mother-in-law made the information that placed him under arrest. She declares that since his wife's death some three years ago Johnson has not provided for his children; he said this was because could not secure work, but this was found to be a hoax for the borough officers secured him a situation and he refused to work. This being vacation time it is thought that the extended vacation will add materially to both men.

Chief Albright declares that there are other professional loafers around and that they will be the recipients of similar work-house sentences should they continue their professional worthlessness.

Committee Meeting Sunday.

A meeting of all the committees in connection with the annual picnic of St. Jerome's congregation has been called for Sunday.

The outing will be at Eldora Park on Thursday, June 24 and from present indications will be the largest ever held by the congregation. The park will be in charge of the committee and a general admission ticket entitles the holder to the free use of all amusements.

FIGHTING TRIM

In a pamphlt entitled "Fighting Trim," issued by the United States Public Health Service, Surgeon J. M. Eager lays stress upon personal endeavor of every individual as of the highest public importance in the organized war against disease. The wonderful victories that have been won in combating infectious maladies have had a tendency to divert popular atention from the equally important personal fortification against diseases of all kinds. The question of preparedness against onslaughts of the enemy, a query prominent in the minds of everyone in these days of warfare is put in a special personal bearing as relating to the dangers threatened by disease, the permanent enemy of mankind. Are you personally prepared, it is asked, for the hand-to-hand encounter with disease that you are sure to be forced into sooner or later or in which perhaps you are already engaged? Unless you are willing to succumb without a struggle, fight you must, no matter how feeble your fighting proclivities are. The inevitability of the battle against disease is strongly insisted upon. Peace between nations, it is stated, may not be an unattainable hope, but even when the much desired era of human concord comes and armed strife among men has ceased, there will still be an everlasting battle to fight, a ceaseless struggle for a few more years of health and life, a desperate conflict against a foe who, as far as victory over the individual fighter is concerned is certain in the end to win—the battel against disease.

In the defense against disease two things are necessary—a systematic union of fighters, the sanitary organization and personal preparedness, the product of intelligent and diligent personal hygiene. Personal preparedness is the patriotic duty of every citizen as an aid to national sanitary defense. No man as a member of society is morally free to live unhygienically or to acquire disease brough lack of personal care. Like slovenly soldier, the person who eglects his health risks imparting to others his loose morals or even transmitting disease to the whole community.

"Health is a man's most valuable possession. Without it he cannot hold or enjoy anything else that falls to his lot or that he wins in the battle of life without health he is a burden to himself and unless he possesses marked compensatory qualities, an encumberance to his comrades, though as victims of life's ill chance, they are entitled to the most sympathetic consideration, it is sad fact that the sick cannot but be considered as impediments in the conflict of existence. Their places are in the rear. Often indeed, as easy marks for the attacks of disease, they become targets drawing the fire of the enemy. Wealth, position, friendship, ability to help others are largely discounted by physical infirmity."

The health making attitude of mind is represented as a profitable talent and fortunately one that can be acquired. Doctor Eager calls attention to the large available mass of literature on health subjects—work, exercise, relaxation, sleep, fresh air, proper temperature, food, cooking, cleanliness, etc., that should be judiciously selected and studied. Every person must learn for himself what peril threatens in his special place in life.

Studies of health subjects in schools and clubs, its exposition in public lectures, newspaper articles, and bulletins, have the salutary tendency, it is stated, to promote wholesome practices as an habitual exercise and develop the precious quality of automatically choosing in every action and habit of life those courses that conduce to bodily soundness.

ICE CREAM

What, pray, is ice cream? Dietary detectives have said that it may be a combination of moistened milk powder and furniture glue, frozen and flavored, or that it may consist largely of fats worked through a homeogenizer into a semblance of cream; of old cream rejuvenated or any of a number of horrendous mixtures disguised with strong flavoring extracts and subjected to the impartial treatment of Jack Frost, says the New York Tribune.

The uninitiated public, from the hardened criminal to the innocent babe, knows it simply as a malleable substance of low temperature which tickles the palate so outrageously that one forgives it the cramps which follow its injudicious consumption.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The Philadelphia Ledger is responsible for the following:

"Here," she said, rushing back to the ticket window, "this dollar you gave me in change is counterfeit."

"Pardon me, but I didn't give you a dollar in change."

"Yes, you did. I bought a ticket here not two minutes ago and you changed a $5 bill for me. It was all the money I had so I couldn't have got this bad dollar anywhere else."

"You should have examined your change when it was handed to you. I can't make any correction now."

"I shan't budge from this window till you give me a good dollar for the bad one you tried to foist upon me."

"Let me see it."

"There."

"Why, this is a perfectly good bill. Here is another. I'm not afraid of it."

"No, I won't take this bill It's torn. Give me a new one."

"I'm sorry, but if you don't want that bill I'll have to give you your change in nickles."

"Thank you," she said after counting the pieces of coin. "I wanted a dollar's worth of nickels, but I knew you wouldn't have that many if I asked for them in the first place."

When a pro-allies person flops into a chair in "Joe" Rosdal's Sixth avenue barber shop these days his upturned chin is as safe as though his father was about to shave him—especially if the old man is feeble, says a New York special to the St. Louis Globe Democrat. The reason for this indication of reversal is that "Joe" is neutral. Headmits it: a sign on the bosom of the central mirror announces it and the word "German" has been swept from the sign "German-American Barber Shop" on the front portal.

On a recent afternoon "Joe" was powdering a British jaw when a customer concealed under a quilt of lather in a nearby chair said, speaking to the ceiling:

"What do yuh think o' th' war?"

"Giuseppe, nefer mind saying nodings," said "Joe" addressing himself to the barber in charge of the conversationalist.

"Whaddye mean," asked the shavee after a painful pause.

"My friends," said Joe, placing a quantity of fresh lather in his own client's ear, "I got here a neutral barber shop. War chatter is nex. You got to consider dis."

"Aw," said the customer, recrossing his feet in a wide circle, "I ast this guy what he thought o' th' war.

"Vell, yes, he could, bud not here," answered Joe, making the wide fox trot from sideboard to chin dimple.

And that's the way matters stand. Joe explained that when Italy threatened to enter the war and the spirit of things pervaded the shop Luigi, the bootblack, got to shinning customers' socks in his excitement. Robert, who was born in Wales, thought nothing of nicking a nose of a Teutonic customer after the middle of August, and Joe and Adolph held nightly debates about firing every one but themselves. He explained that both Robert and Luigi had a light touch in their respective ways and that it was decided finally that the best way out was to declare peace and amity within the confines of the shop. As a result it has become frightfully neutral in Sixth avenue just north of Thirty-fifth street.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT LOCAL SWIMMING BEACH ARE VERY ATTRACTIVE

A band stand has been erected at the Charleroi bathing beach and arrangements are being made for concerts, possibly to be held each evening.

The stand was completed on Thursday and while no definite arrangements have yet been made for the opening concert it is stated that within a few days everything will be ready. An effort is being made to have the opening concert by the Charleroi Concert Band. Other bands will be engaged during the season.

U. S. Orange who has the refreshment privilege at the beach will erect a pavilion stand adjoining his present building. Tables and chairs will be providd and everything possible done for the comfort and convenience of his patrons.

The warm days of the past week has done much toward bringing forth good crowds. The water is now at a good temperature for bathing.

Did This Ever Happen to You?

A peculiar accident is reported from Abbotsford. Fred Wedeking, a young man of that place, slipped and fell on a bowling alley, striking the side of his head against the corner of an electric piano. No one saw the accident, but a few seconds later some one noticed that one of his ears was gone. It was the first he had heard about it; but, sure enough, on making an investigation he found he was minus an ear. The lost member was found lying on the floor near the piano and, with its owner, was taken to Dr. Johnson's office, where it was put back in place, and it is now growing on again.—Rice Lake (Wis.) Our Daily Special.

When in doubt don't say anything.

Luke McLuke Says:

When a man starts in to practice economy he figures up a list of about ninety things that his wife could go without, but he can't think of a single thing that he could sacrifice without injuring his health.

When father gets home from a boy a keg party about 3 a. m. he always believes that his wife was mean enough to move the blamed keyhole in the front door so it would take him about five minutes to locate it.

When father goes up to his pet saloon to orate on the European war and discovers that another war orator has beat him to his favorite indoor sport father sulks around and tells the bartender that there is too much gabbing going on to suit him.

A girl can eat sour pickles and be sweeter than ever, but it is different when she eats onions.

A dollar looks about as big around as a dime to a man when he is buying a round of drinks, but when he has to hand it to his wife it looks as big around as an automobile wheel.

Every man knows a few mean things about himself that he doesn't want other people to know.

A man often says that he has changed his mind about doing a thing when he really means that his wife changed it for him.

Ministers are just like the rest of us. We all want to labor in the vineyard where the pay is the best.

Before he gets her life is all toasts. After he gets her life is all roasts.

A youth gets so tired of having to explain to his mother why he was out so late that he goes and gets married and then has to spend the rest of his life explaining to his wife.

The trouble with most people is that when you do them a favor they act as though they were doing you a favor in letting you do it.

The man who shows his love for his wife by bringing her home a few flowers every week has it all over the man who shows his love for his wife by ordering a $20 wreath for her casket when she dies.

The faster a man is the longer it takes him to get home at night.

ADVICE FOR THE NERVES

Well to Turn Habit of Overstrenuousness Into Some Really Profitable Channel.

Are you strenuous? Do you go in for things for all they are worth? If you are an American-born woman I know the answer. You pitch headlong into club life, art society, or some other pursuit because your nerves are ragged American nerves that never stop sending out impulses from dawn to dark.

There is too much pent-up vitality in all of us, and yet it is better for your everlasting beauty and poise that you expend it with discretion over a number of activities rather than exert it over one that may be a mere fancy.

I realize that this is a day of specialization, and to be a success one must adhere to one thing, but vitality is both physical and mental, and the first must not be neglected or the second will suffer. Regular walks in the open country and daily exercises would give her the perfect equilibrium and nerve control which she and her work both need.

Have you ever noticed what a lot of useless things we do when our nerves are on the ragged edge? When they are rested and well you keep calm, you enjoy life and accomplish things without leaving lines of wear on the face.

If you must be strenuous in the pursuit of some object, expend a good amount of daily enthusiasm on physical exercise. The benefits will show in your looks and health and the perfection of your work.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

IMPRESSIONS OF A HINDU

Learned Eastern Visitor Frankly Confesses That He Is Unable to Understand Americans.

Not seldom I feel among Americans as the Egyptian is said to have felt among the Greeks, that I am moving in a world of precocious and inexperienced children, bearing on my own shoulders the weight of the centuries. Yet it is not exactly that Americans strike one as young in spirit; rather they strike one as undeveloped. It is as though they had never faced life and asked themselves what it is, as though they were so occupied in running that it has never occurred to them to inquire where they started and whither they are going. They seem to be always doing and never experiencing. A dimension of life, one would say, is lacking, and they live in a plane instead of in a solid. That missing dimension I shall call religion. Not that Americans do not, for aught I know, "believe" as much as or more than Europeans; but they appear neither to believe nor to disbelieve religiously. . . . But even in Europe—and far more in India—there has always been, and still is, a minority who open windows to the stars; and through these windows, in passing, the plain man sometimes looks.—Rabindranath Tagore.

VALUE OF DOGS IN WARFARE

European Armies All Employ Them, and Testimony Is That They Give Good Service.

While there has been devoted a good deal of attention to the use of dogs in ambulance work, the sentry dog has figured little in dispatches. The sentry dog was urgently recommended a year or two ago by some of the higher French army officers but they received no encouragement from the war office. Now the need is acutely felt and a corps is being trained as rapidly as possible. A dog of this kind will invariably give warning of the approach of an enamy long before the soldier sentry is aware of it. In one section of the northern front, where dogs have been used for the past month, no night attack of the Germans has been successful.

Not every dog will make a good enough sentry. They need careful selection and equally careful training. Many animals that are excellent as watch dogs or in guarding their master's property, prove worthless when removed suddenly to a new environment and stationed under a stranger.

The English at present have dogs working with about thirty battalions of their army. The Russians also use them rather extensively on sentry duty.

It is said that the Germans whenever they enter new towns, make it a rule to collect and train all likely dogs, and to kill all others. Many of their signalmen go out accompanied by dog scouts who give warning of the approach of the enemy.

Length of Life Increases.

According to Dr. V. C. Vaughn of the University of Michigan, the average length of life in this country is now fifteen years greater than it was 35 years ago. The death rate from tuberculosis, he says, has decreased 54 per cent since 1880. Doctor Vaughn regards crime as a disease and asserts that the only way to eradicate it is to treat it as such and "disinfect its breeding places."—Pathfinder.

Disappearing Peach Trees.

Some of the Colorado fruit growers on the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains have adopted an ingenious method for protecting their peach orchards during the winter season. The plan, which has been found to be a meritorious one, consists of bending the trees down to the ground, covering their branches with hay or straw and then burying them under about two inches of soil, in much the same way as blackberry and raspberry bushes are cared for in cold climates. Although in the past the peach trees in this section suffered much damage and frequently were killed outright during the winters, by this method of culture they are surviving severe weather without difficulty and bearing good yields of fruit.

AMONG THE THEATRES

PALACE—CHARLEROI

An excellent program of motion pictures and vaudeville was presented at the Palace theatre during the past week. Monday the four part comedy drama, "She Stoops to Conquer" was shown in connection with the Alliance program. The picture which was taken from the book of the same name was an interesting and amusing story of a young heiress who masqueraded as a barmaid to win the affections of a bashful youth. Was "The Man Who Found Himself." Robert Warwick who has won a place in the hearts of movie enthusiasts enacted the leading role. The last three days an excellent vaudeville program, headed by an act that played at the Harris theatre last week, was presented. Millicent Dorris was an exceptionally clever and sensational comedienne. Hall and Obrien were featured in a comedy sketch as the dancing boob and the female kop. Gourley and Keenan with their trained dogs Sparkel and Rayo were much appreciated as singers, dancers and comedians.

MAJESTIC—CHARLEROI

Many excellent photoplays were comprehended in the present week's program at the Majestic theatre. "The Sporting Duchess," from the famous play of the same name, with popular Rose Coghlan on the title role, was the really big feature of the week. One of the most beautiful pictures of the week was "Man to Man," a natural colored photoplay. On the screen this showed up with exceptional brightness and life-like clearness. Today "On the Night Stage" was presented in 5 reels featuring Robert Ideson and W. S. Hart. Saturday "Just Nuts" will be an extremely humorous feature. On the succeeding Saturday and on each following Saturday a Charlie Chaplin comic will be shown.

COYLE—CHARLEROI

The program for the week at the Coyle has been one comprehensive of good photoplays. Among the plays for the week was "The Woman," a photoplay of many merits. Next week one of the chief attractions at the Coyle will be that wonderful film—"The Eternal City." Pauline Frederick will be featured in the leading role as Donna Roma. The film is one of a powerful plot, dramatical to the utmost. It is the story of a foster brother and sister, who after years of separation, meet in old Rome. On June 30 "The Avenging Conscience" will be screened. This is a wonderful story of a vengeance that is just. There is a wrong done and the avenging of it makes the delightful photoplay. "The Avenging Conscience."

Lung Trouble Yielded to This Medicine

If you are suffering with serious lung trouble, it will pay to fully investigate Eckman's Alterative, a remedy which has caused many recoveries. One follows:

5323 Girard Ave., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen:—In the winter of 1903 I had an attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia, and later by Lung Trouble. In the winter of 1904 I had a cough, night sweats, fever and raised quantities of awful-looking stuff, and later I had many hemorrhages, at one time three in three successive days. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to the mountains, but did not go. Eckman's Alterative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well." (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) ANNIE F. LOUGHRAN.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and up-building the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitute. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.

Another sweeping statement was to the effect that if the church would cease attending picture shows and quit reading Sunday papers and prepare for the work in the Sunday school instead they would have a much greater influence for good. It is no wonder he stated that better results are not obtained.

A great many of the local Sunday School enthusiasts left early this morning to attend the convention.

TELLS OF LIFE IN VIENNA

Wherein Conditions Are Different From Those That Prevail in American Cities.

Life in Vienna offers many incongruities to the American. First, he will find, unless he has taken the precaution to equip himself with large sums of money, that he cannot possibly afford to live anywhere except in a flat. No one except the nobility and extremely rich foreigners can hope to have a whole house to himself.

He will find that he can ride upward in an elevator, but that he must walk down. He will find that if he wants to see anything of the place, and how its inhabitants enjoy themselves, he must stay out all night. When he comes home late he must tip the doorkeeper in order to get into his own house.

The people frequent the cafes of Vienna so constantly that peddlers of linen derive a smart income from sales to be used on the spot. The guest who is accepting hospitality may decline to have a drink, but in all likelihood he will accept a clean collar.

In Vienna the retired chorus girls are pensioners, the flower girls are grandmothers and the messenger boys are men. These grown-up messenger boys are known as "commissioners." They are dressed in distinctive uniforms and are licensed to perform many kinds of work other than running errands. It would doubtless be more correct to style them "men of all chores" rather than "Jacks of all trades." Witness the varied and unusual service rendered by one of them in a single day:

His first job was to rebottle some wine; then he cleaned a pipe for an invalid bachelor. After that he clipped a dog for an actress; next he beat a carpet for a boarding-house keeper; then he curried a cabman's horse, polished an officer's sword, and after packing a trunk for a departing traveler wound up the day by helping a plumber deliver a bathtub.

Yet the "commissioner" did not hesitate to complain of the times. He was quite willing to be quoted as stating that he hoped conditions would improve soon so that he might be kept busy.

HIGH ANGLE FIRE FAVORED

German Naval Authorities Have Provided Ability to Elevate to an Extreme Degree.

The usual range of elevation for the guns of the main battery of warships is from 5 degrees below the horizontal to 15 degrees above; but the Germans have given to their guns big and little, the ability to elevate to 30 degrees above the horizontal, or even more than that. The object of this was to enable the guns to be elevated above the horizontal, even when the ship, due to penetration below the water line, has listed several degrees toward the enemy—a very wise provision. This arrangement has conferred the added advantage of greatly increasing the range, and the result was shown in the Falkland islands fight when the 8.2-inch shells of the Scharnhorst reached and several times struck the British battle cruisers at a range which was probably between 14,000 and 16,000 yards. At that distance the falling angle of the German shells is stated to have been fully 45 degrees.—Scientific American.

Rehabilitation of Belgium.

The famous old guildhall of London has been the scene of some wonderful meetings in the past, but surely none of them can vie in strangeness with that when Belgian architects and engineers and civic authorities met those of England to confer with them about the rebuilding and town planning of almost a whole devastated country, which six months ago was one of the most beautiful and well ordered in all the world.

The International Garden Cities and Town Planning association is responsible for the conference.

There are two hundred architects and surveyors among the refugees here, and it is these men who are now working hard in conjunction with their English brethren to evolve some scheme whereby, it is hoped, Belgium may be restored to her former beauty and usefulness.—London Mail.

Red Jacket to Rout Rats.

Pointers on how to get rid of the ubiquitous rat, from sewing a red jacket on him to dipping him in tar, are contained in a bulletin issued by the Massachusetts state board of agriculture, and compiled by Edward H. Forbush, state ornithologist. The following advice as to how to conduct an exterminating warfare is contained in the bulletin:

"Use cats, terriers, particularly the fox terrier, and ferrets; sew a red jacket on a captive rat, or paint him, then release him: place a collar and bell on a live rat, and release him: dip him in tar, and liberate him: also place tar in rat holes, runs, and burrows."

Ostrich Feathers Cheaper.

Ostrich feathers took a slump recently, on the Australian market, and many farmers are selling their birds. It is reported that as a consequence there is likely to be a considerable surplus of lucerne which has been grown to feed them, and a proposal is on foot to establish an export trade in this fodder. This, however, is not meeting with unanimous support, as it is considered by many that the product should be utilized in the country for the feeding of dairy and other stock.

GOVERNOR BRUMBAUGH SIGNS BILLS FAVORING SHIP CANAL MOVEMENT

This morning it has become known that Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh signed the hotly-contested canal bill in approval of the Canal movement. The bills are momentous ones as the many county commissioners now have it in their power to ask the citizens of their respective sections to vote as to whether or not they shall set away an appropriation for the building and maintainance of a canal from Pittsburg to Lake Erie.

So far the movement has met with success. Previous to the placing of the bills before the governor for his consideration many debates were heard concerning the matter. Should the movement now meet with the popular approval of the citizens of Pennsylvania it will greatly increase industry in Pittsburg and articles now being manufactured in Pennsylvania.

Governor Brumbaugh also signed the bill creating a canal commission. Under former Governor Tener a canal commission was created but the term of this commission expired in January 1915.

"THE CLEMENCEAU CASE" AT THE COYLE ON MONDAY

Manager Coyle announces for Monday, "The Clemenceau Case" a William Fox production, featuring Theda Bara, the star of "A Fool There Was." William Shay and Stuart Holmes are also members of the all-star cast.

On Tuesday "The Woman," one of Jesse L. Lask'ys pictures will be shown. Like "The Governor's Lady" this picture deals with a typical modern American theme and is replete with heart interest of the most appealing order.

Tuesday, June 29, Mary Pickford, the favorite of them all, will appear as "Fanchon the Cricket." The Famous Players' little star portrays Fanchon with an amazing power of conception and illustrates all the dramatic depths and the varying lights and shades of this famous character.

Notice to the Public.

Since we have published our new price list some people are under the impression that it is our purpose to make our customers pay more than necessary.

This is not the case and to prove it we desire to place th following facts before the people:

For the past three or four years a general increase in wages has been granted to all trades, plumbers, carpenters, blacksmiths, street car men, miners, etc., to meet the increased cost of living.

The teamsters of this town have not received any advance in wages but have been compelled to meet a steady increase on expenses as for instance, shoeing horses three years ago cost $1.40 while we pay $2.00 now. Hay, oates, straw have taken a raise from 50 to 100 per cent in the same time. The price of harness, wagons, horses and repairs have all been advanced.

In all fairness are we not entitled to a raise in our prices to meet these new conditions? We ask your fair consideration of the above facts.

FEW CAPABLE OF SYMPATHY

Too Many Make the Mistake of Considering Pity as Answering the Same Purpose.

"I'm very, very sorry for her, but I don't understand how she can do as she is doing." That's the kind of sympathy you don't care to have directed your way, isn't it? That isn't really sympathy but nothing more than pity, a fine condescending look-down from above that seems to say, "I am of better material" a good deal more than it says, "I am sorry."

It's odd how little sympathy there is abroad in the world. We mean how little downright frank understanding that others are really suffering from things that would not make us suffer; that others want to do things in which we see no delight, and don't want to do things that someone who keeps tab on the world's duty says they ought to do. A man told us the other day that he had so trained his boy that he would find few temptations in college. A lot that man knows about it, doesn't he? One thing is sure; he will never hear much of the temptations, for he couldn't understand. All he could say would be, "My dear boy, I don't see how you can feel for one moment like doing these things." And if he can't understand, he won't be much help to the boy.

Sometimes when you have felt weak enough to want a little sympathy, you haven't gone to the good friend who was prolific of advice, have you? Nor yet to him who looked in pity as on an abnormal being? But someone who really cared for you, put his arm around your shoulder, and—well that was about all. But it's too bad we can't remember it oftener.

SORRY TO HAVE MISSED TRIP

Traveler's Regret Is That He Passed Up Opportunity to Cross the Sinai Desert.

The difficulties of the Sinai desert seem to a correspondent to be somewhat exaggerated. Ten years ago, he writes, I visited Jerusalem, Jericho and the Dead sea on my bicycle, and on my return journey was tempted to make the trip from Jaffa to Alexandria by way of Gaza and the coast. As the result of local inquiries (and cycling is not unknown in Palestine, for I got the loan of a pump in Jerusalem) I ascertained that the journey would be only some 150 miles—"six days' camel journey"—and that water would be obtainable at two places. There is no "road," but my experience in Palestine did not make that any disadvantage, for I usually found that a camel track gave considerably better going than the sort of thing that passes as a made road in the wilderness of Judea. Six days by camel would have meant about four days on a cycle, but as that was the exact time I had in hand before my boat sailed from Alexandria, I came to the conclusion that there was not enough margin to work on. To reduce my risks I was prepared to take enough drinking water and food for the whole journey no other equipment being necessary. I have only once regretted not having made the venture, but that regret is still with me.—Manchester Guardian.

First "Saratoga Chips."

One of the best ways of cooking potatoes was accidentally discovered through the unpunctuality of a train. When the line from Paris to St. Germain was opened, the first train carried an official party, for whom lunch was ordered The meal was fixed for noon, and shortly before that hour some potatoes were put on to fry. A few minutes afterward a message came that the train would probably be delayed for an hour, so the potatoes were taken off the fire, but left in the pan. Then came a second message. "Train just arriving," and the potatoes were hurriedly put back to fry again. When the party sat down to lunch the potatoes were brought on with a steak. To the delight of the guests, each chip was then found to be blown out like a small, crisp golden balloon. The cook had unconsciously invented pommes de terre souffiees.—London Chronicle.

West Africans Use Soap Freely.

In all parts of West Africa there are evidences that for centuries before the native began to import or to buy European cotton goods from the European trader who came hither, they grew their own cotton and wove on hand looms their own cotton goods. They also manufactured soap, and have made free use of it in keeping both their clothes and bodies clean, as may be observed by those who travel through the country. Some wash their bodies, as a religious ceremony, two and three times a day. This is necessary, as the natives oil their skins as a protection against the painful effects of the sun They also delight in their white, flowing gowns.

Vacuum Grooming.

All the houses of the park department of New York city are now curried and groomed with a vacuum outfit. It carries away all the dust and dirt and hair that formerly filled the stable at grooming time. The vacuum-grooming set consists of a high-pressure vacuum fan directly connected with a one-sixth horsepower motor. The fan revolves in an aluminum case, to which the vacuum currycomb is connected by means of a long hose. The new machine benefits the hostler, for he no longer runs the risk of infecting his lungs by breathing in the germs of disease.

Immune From Typhoid Fever.

Sir Frederick Treves, chief of the British army medical service, reports that up to January 26 there had been 25 deaths from typhoid among the British soldiers at the front. Of these 25, 34 had not been protected by anti-typhoid vaccination. The single case of death in a vaccinated man was of one who had received only the first dose.

Of 20,000 Australian troops receiving the protective inoculation, Surgeon General Williams reports: "Not one single case showed any after-symptom which could be considered worthy of consideration. Not a man had to be taken off duty; drills and exercises proceeded as usual."

Crystal Palace.

The Crystal palace, which is to be closed in order to provide quarters for 10,000 recruits, is not without other connection with the war. Had there been no Krupps, there might have been no war, and the palace helped to make the great gun firm famous. The Krupp establishment at Essen was quite a small affair until a two-ton ingot of cast steel shown by the enterprising Alfred Krupp at the great exhibition of 1851 attracted shoals of orders, and led to almost fabulous prosperity.—London Chronicle.

Love Letters in Her Coffin.

The will of Miss Mary Ashton Wade of Yonkers, who died on January 11 at the age of seventy-four, was admitted to probate. Miss Louisa Bradford of 956 West End avenue, Manhattan, a friend of Miss Wade, filed an affidavit, stating she had carried out the testator's dying wish that a certain sealed package among her effects should be buried with her.

Gerrit Smith, the executor's counsel, said the mysterious package was supposed to contain love letters. The will disposed of an $11,000 estate to relatives.—Yonkers (N. Y.) Dispatch to New York Sun.
